

Court Street

by Margot DeSalvo

---

The subway smells like urine and the change of season.
Spring is lurking but unconvincing.

Absorb these dynamics of gravity—
collisions of trying different lives,
the sky's growl,
and moments unkempt.

Sometimes it takes years before one knows how to walk off a subway with pride.